(In Spanish)

Los años avanzan, se abren paso, crece el pelo blanco, surcos en mi frente, los huesos resisten, como una roca erosionada por el viento, van cediendo los días y meses, miro a través de la ventana pasar las estaciones, siempre el mismo cielo limpio de estrellas y de nubes, cada vez más alto. ¡No llueve! Hace años que no llueve, las palabras sedientas, la yerba secada por el sol, el aire árido sopla con fuerza, los brazos esqueléticos del único árbol, restos pulido del bosque, oigo el trinar de un famélico pájaro. ¡Hay esperanza!

(In English)

The years pass, they get through, the hair grows white, wrinkles on my forefront. The bones resist, like a rock eroded by the wind, the days and the months give way; I watch through the window how the seasons pass, always the same sky clear of stars and clouds, higher and higher. It doesn't rain! It hasn't rained for years, the words are thirsty, the grass has been dried up by the sun, the rough wind blows wild, the skinny arms of the only tree, the naked remains of the forest; I hear the song of an emaciated bird. There's still some hope!
